HEROES

Down through the years from the pages of our History books march the figures of many men whose names we early learned to know and respect—Stories of Columbus, Napoleon, Washington, Lincoln and others told us again how constancy of purpose, and loyalty to a cause enabled these men to become leaders and heroes. Back of their leadership however were countless other men whose names have long been forgotten, but whose cooperation these leaders could not have accomplished their work. Like the old saying, "Distance lends enchantment," time has added glamour to their names. It seems unfair that time is so necessary to recognition. All tales of loyalty are not recorded, and too many not even thought of as such.

It is not necessary for you to go to a library for a book on famous characters in history in order to discover men who possess this quality. Why not look around our own community? Why not give a thought to the services and the examples of loyalty to this community that our business men have showing us.

For example, we have a splendid fire department. It is made up, as you know, of volunteers. These men get no compensation for the risks they take. In all kinds of weather, at any time of the day or night, whenever the call comes they are ready to jump into the fire truck and do all that is possible to save your property. Do you really appreciate this service? Our fire men have always been our business men. They have their stories and shops in which you can find practically any commodity you need. If a fire should break out in one of your homes, would you be asking the business men of your community to come to the rescue of possessions bought from neighboring towns or even distant mail order houses when they might as well have been bought at home?

Washington's soldiers at Valley Forge would not have stuck with him had he not considered their welfare his responsibility. Therefore, you should not expect too much service and loyalty from those to whom you are not willing to return it in some measure at least.

WALCOTT FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED OUT

The Walcott fire department was called Friday evening at 10:30 to a fire at the Ralph Telsrow residence one mile north of Stockton. The large barn 48x72 was totally destroyed, however all the live stock was saved.

Mr. Telsrow, claim to have lost 65 tons of hay, 600 bushels of oats, besides the harness and farm machinery. The Durant fire department assisted Walcott in saving other buildings on the premises.

CARD PARTY SPONSORED BY PYTHIAN SISTERS.

The second of series of monthly card parties was held Nov 3rd by the Pythian Sisters.

Five hundred was played and prizes awarded to Marie Burmeister, Emma Fischer, Laura Dietz, Agnes Fromme, Leo Tomberg, Clara Shenpolk and Mary Andresen.

Skat prizes were awarded to Otto Andresen and Ben Paustian.

there was listed a story entitled, "Ten Dollars" The thought behind it seems worthwhile passing on.

In a small town, somewhat like ours, lived a young doctor and his wife. She was an extremely cautious young lady and had for a long time kept safely hidden a ten dollar bill to be used in an emergency. Not long after this she was reading an article on hoarding and its bad results. Since she was conscientious as well as cautious, she thought of her ten dollar bill and of how she might best put it into circulation. There were those two rooms that needed paper and varnish so badly. She determined to redecorate immediately.

The next morning she paid a visit to her local painter. He was very glad to see this most unexpected ten dollars come his way. After the lady left, he felt this was his opportunity to pay that grocery bill he owed.

Now the grocer had granted credit to the painter because he had always been a faithful customer and had always paid his bills promptly. The grocer had not expected to be paid so soon. This unlooked for money was soon on its way again. Mr. Grocer passed it on to the garage for repairs that he had been neglecting to get done on his car.

The garage owner had a large yard in which he found little time to work. He did his part by hiring a man to care for his yard. The man he hired was trying to earn his living doing odd jobs. He had a small daughter just recovering from a serious illness. When he was paid, he hastened to make a ten dollar payment on his doctor bill.

WINDOW SHOPPING

One day two girls were strolling down Main street and gazing into the shops filled with lovely dresses and finery which lined the street on either side.

The first girl sighed, "Oh dear, wouldn't you love to have that darling dress in that window? I hate to look at all these cute things because I know that I can't have any of them."

"Yes," replied the other, "I think that dress is cute, and so are all the others; but it doesn't make me miserable to look at them, just because I can always get ideas and make my own clothes to look like them. Anyway I enjoy gazing."

Here is a similar incident. There were two houses built, exactly alike situated across the road from each other. One was neglected and forlorn, with dingy windows, where soiled curtains hung, a barren yard inclosed by a broken barbed wire fence, and a blade of green to be seen.

The other was clean and bright. A rustic porch with vines trained over it protected the front door. Flowers were planted in the yard on either side of the path leading up from a white picket gate. Bright curtains hung at the windows.

Both families had the same incomes, but where one sat wishing her house could be charming the other gathered seeds, paint, and cheap chintz, and after a few hours of labor, created something worth while.

Walcott experienced a quiet Halloween as most of the boys inclined to mischief were sound asleep in their warm little beds as early as 8:30 p.m. With the exception of a few flat tires soapy windows, a buggy which yearly does the disappearing act, and a plow which the general marshal found hanging in a tree, all was quiet and peaceful. We understand that one watchful party waited with both barrels loaded to surprise the boys and later to invite them in to a glass of beer. When the watchful party informed the boys of his good intentions on the following morning he was told that the beer would be as welcome that morning as the night before.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS ENTERTAIN

Walcott Lodge Knights of Pythias, inaugurated its new plan of entertainment last week with a Committee of 25 serving over ninety Knights enjoyed the program and movies, followed by a Roast Ham Banquet.

The next monthly committee of 25 will serve in December.

At the next regular meeting on Nov. 23rd, the Rank of Page team will rehearse for a class of candidates to be initiated later. Also nomination of officers for 1934.

This was of course merely a story, but the thought behind it all is this—money circulated at home stays home, sometimes even returning to you. On the other hand, that sent out into a wide circle of other communities generally forgets to come back.

We in Walcott are unique in having no cases of extreme poverty and no families dependent on the town. A member of a city relief committee remarked that he had never before of town with such a record. Loyalty to our home merchants and people can maintain this record for us. Truly, it is an enviable one. We should keep it intact.

Phil Reinbecht, lost playing Skat in Walcott last Tuesday. Here's hoping he comes back again.

Corinne Paustian, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Grothus, of Chicago, were visitors in Walcott recently.

Carl Bannister, was in Walcott Monday. We are glad to see Carl up and around after his accident.

A large crowd enjoyed the dance and entertainment at the Walcott Tavern. Reggie & Shuey are coming back soon.

John Bader, retired farmer died at his home last Thursday. Funeral was held Sunday with burial in Walcott cemetery.

Albert Illian, Leonar Arp, H. L. Paustian, George Dittmer and Herbert Rock attended the state insurance convention.

Dr. and Mrs. T. D. Englehorn and daughter Frances, of Lineville Iowa, spent the week end with the Robert Bennowitz family.

The Walcott Fire Department was called Sunday night to a grass fire along the railroad right of way west of Clarence Paustians.

Otto Andresen, spent the week-end pheasant hunting around Algona and spent Monday in bed with some sort of sleeping sickness.
